Foreign Minister Talks Pointless—Khrushchev

Offers U.K. 50-Year Pact

MOSCOW.—Premier Khrushchev on Tuesday rejected the West's proposals on the Berlin question and the suspension of nuclear tests and called again for a summit conference of Heads of Foreign Ministers' parley.

He declared that Russia wants to conclude a non-aggression treaty with Britain.

"A treaty can be concluded of Foreign Ministers in the British Fremier, he said. We would like Britain to have friendly relations with the U.S.S.R. We want to conclude a treaty of non-aggression and want to become the friends of her friends."

Speaking at a local political raily in the Kremlin, Mr. Khrushchev rejected the Western offer for a meeting of foreign ministers ag "unbusinessalike and unacceptable." Such a conference, he said, may last for many months or many years.

it helps them keep in good health.

This has not escaped Western observers. Today you can buy soy sauce at any supermarket or good grocery in the U.S., Canada, Brazil, Britain, France, Holland—wherever people like good food. This popularity of Chinese soy sauce in Europe led a Frenchman to observe: "Soy sauce is now as indispensable to a chie dianer as a love scene to a Wrench bestseller."

TELIMA soy sauce is worth trying. One word of warning though: Only a few drops at a time, at least to begin with.

This means that Archbishop Makarios, leader of more than 400,000 Greek Cypriota, will return to his native Cyprus after three years of exile in which he was a national hero to his own people and an unrepentant leader of terrorists to the British.

In March, 1956, the then Governor of Cyprus, Fleid-Marshal Sir John Harding, accused the Archbishop of being deeply implicated in the Eoka terrorist movement. The Governor deported him and three other senior priests to the Seychelies islands.

In Nicosia, on Tuesday, Dr. Fadil Kutchuk and Mr. Raouf Denktash, leaders of the Turkish community, said, "We would categorically like the Cyprus Republic to stay in the British Commonwealth."

The two, who had arrived from Istanbul carlier in the day, said that the decision would probably come through a plebiscite.

"We have reason to believe that the majority of Greek Cypriots would want to stey in the Commonwealth too," they said.

A front-page editorial overeight columns said it would not be easy to fulfil this year's economic plan which calls for large increases in the production of steel, coal, grain and cotton.

"Since we are to ensure that key projects are completed first, we will have to delay some secondary projects. Some comrades might be somewhat unwilling to do this and this kind of feeling is quite understandable." the "People's Daily" added.

The editorial urged workers to fulfil their production targets, specially in steel, coal, coke, machinery, daily necessities and staple agricultural products.

In another front-page report, the newspaper said many parts of the country had fallen short of their big production targets for key steel-works, railway projects and the coal industry.

without opposition.

Under the original Government bill, Regular Army officers and senior civil servants who wished to stand for election to the Knesset were required to resign only before the final party list was submitted, 30 days before Election Day.

However, the Law Committee felt that the removal of the Army and the civil service from politics should be extended further and decided on the 100-day rule.

AUDITORS' REPORT TO THE MEMBERS OF JACOB JAPHET & CO. LTD.

we Balance Sheet of JACOB JAPHET & CO. LTD. dated December 31, 1958, and the Profit and Lond Bullion, the Balances with Banks, the Investments and the Hills Receivable held by the Bank. We the best of our knowledge and belief were necessary for the purpose of the audit. In our opinion, appears from our examination thereof. The Balance Sheet and fire annexed Profit and Loas Account in a manner appropriate to a banking business. In our opinion and to the best of our information a true and fair view of the State of the Bank's affairs as at December 31 1958, and the Profit at of the business of the Bank for the year ended on that date.

the elements of mutual good will, understanding and trust that finally achieved a political solution did not spring up overnight, as the British statesmen know. And it was not before they were collected into a realistic framework, where the desirable was tempered by the practical, that these elements could be put to work productively. Less than a year ago it was hard to conceive how British-Turco-Greek antagonisms could be conciliated.

This is not to say that there are not great and important differences between Cyprus and Germany. Nevertheless, certain principles appear applicable to both. Reunification of Germany by normal democratic procedure cannot cross the hurdle of Russia's very real physical presence in Eastern Germany. The presence of the Turkish minority in Cyprus was content of the country's reunification will be achieved that threatens to disturb this balance. The Russians may genuinely fear that a reunified Germany, free to join a fill ground of the Soviet Union, would greatly enhance the Western military position and weaken Russia's. The proposal for a limited disengagement of the opposing military forces in central Europe appears to be universally acceptable in principle, but it has become more symbolic than real with the development of mass destruction weapons of great range, and there has been no proposal out of Moscow that would swin in g the parent frankness with which the Kremlin leaders seem to have greeted the British Prime Minister in Moscow, the Soviets have put forward any serious proposals which would guarantee Western Europe against the threat of attack, or whether their chief concern fremains to get Western forces, chiefly Americas, out of Germany, Mr. Khrushchev's foreign policy speech yesterday, rejecting both a foreign ministers' meeting and the latest We ster ray reproposals for a nuclear arms test ban, was a strange interlude in his talks with Mr. Macmillan. If it is Russia's I a st word, the British Premier does not seem to have made much headway in Moscow.

performances. They combined their talents in Mozart's Sinfonia concertante which they played so well some weeks ago with the Kol Yisrael Orchestra. The planist replaced the orchestra part with much dexterity, and it is only a pity that the exposition of the thematic material in the first movement had been cut down in order to reach the solo parts sooner — an indefensible action.
But the interpretation was

First Youth Aliya Marks Anniversary

By BERTHA GASTER

"OH," said Naomi, looking of st a group of them (see photo) "that boy with the flag, why that's you, Pessah, you haven't changed a bit, And next to you, with the white collar, that's Gershon Cohen, he's an architect in California now, and next to him is Abraham Levy, in September 19 Jerusalem, and oh, that's me, at the end of the line!"

Dina Avrech produced music of superior quality and execution. Because she does not tend to impose her personality at the expense of the composition, her audience could concentrate on the music itself and appreciate its character and beauty.

Miss Avrech's progress has ter and beauty.

Miss Avrech's progress has been along clear lines: her technical mastery has improved greatly and her musical personality consolidated. She demonstrated combinations of technique and intellect, temperament and sentiment. Only through such combinations can a pianist clarify the meaning of Beethoven's Sonata in D Minor. opus III, which many regard as the most difficult work in piano literature. The work presents physical and spiritual challenges which are not easy to overcome. In meeting them.

Ha'aretx and Haboker for coming out against the Aliya real intention is aimed against any attempt to impose any immigrant absorption. They call for cuts in Government expenditure, which they claim will solve the whole problem, yet they do not suggest exactly what items should be affected. What seems to upset these right-wing organs most is that the main principle guiding the Government in its economic and immigration policy is that no one in larsel should go hungry and their only aim in opposing the aliya levy is simply to sabotage the whole effort.

Moshe and Arye? A bit of Israel history. When political dissensions rent the kibbutz movement seven years ago, three of the original group left Alonim, after acrimonicus and fierce discussion lasting over six months.

They saw one or two of us privately," said Pessah. But this is the first time they have entered the dining hall and come back to visit us all, everything forgiven, as you may say. Can you wonder they get the warmest welcome of all?"

"We are very happy to be all together again," said Pessah, one of the founder members of Alonim, looking on as the men and women collecting in the hall of the kibbuts laughed and slapped each other on the back in delighted recognition, "but for a very special reason we in Alonim are glad to see Arye and Moshe and our housers there," moding to a woman in the corner, "most of all."

The occasion was a party at Alonim last week-end. Twenty-five years ago, on February 19, 1934, 60 boys
